Exegy Chief Scientist Scott Parsons to Speak at the European Financial Information Summit 2008

St. Louis, MO – Sept. 29, 2008 – Exegy, Inc., the market data innovator behind the Exegy Ticker Plant (www.exegy.com/tickerplant), announced today that Exegy Chief Scientist and Chief Architect Scott Parsons will speak at the European Financial Information Summit 2008 conference (<http://eu.financialinformationsummit.com/index.html>) in London on Sept. 30.

The panel is called “Analysis, acceleration and architecture: Technology issues at the front- and back-end.” The panel will discuss ultra-low latency applications that supply complex analytics to traders, rebuilding a scalable infrastructure to accommodate growth and consolidation, and outsourcing core but commodity components of data technology architecture.

In addition to Parsons, participants on the panel include: Guy Tagliavia, Director Front Office and Low Latency Messaging, IBM, and Andrew Miller, CEO of ARCONTECH. Ken McLeish, Head of Equity Arbitrage & Algorithmic Trading Technology, Barclays Capital, will moderate the panel.
